Patient Handouts in Multiple Languages

The National Library of Medicine's MedlinePlus web site (<http://www.medlineplus.gov>) now includes a link to patient and consumer information in multiple languages. The new feature provides information in over 40 languages, including the following:

Arabic
Bengali
Chinese
Croatian
Hindi
Korean
Kurdish
Spanish
Vietnamese

The MedlinePlus site is accessible directly, or it may be accessed via the Library's home page (<http://library.uthct.edu>) by clicking 'Health Information for Patients'.

Books on the Web

The Library has access to over 200 books on the web. Medical and nursing texts are available on the StatRef system, and more medical texts are in MD Consult. Each book in these systems is listed in the Library's WebVoyage online catalog, and is also available via the StatRef and MD Consult links on the Library's Medline & Other Databases web page.

The NetLibrary database, also linked from the Medline & Other Databases page, contains a number of books in health and biomedical sciences and related fields. Most of the books in NetLibrary are not yet in WebVoyage, but they are searchable directly at NetLibrary.

Thank You

The Library appreciates the recent generous support of the following:

- Dr. Peter Barnes, CPIDC
- Dr. Ben Bridges
- Dr. Kyle James, Family Medicine
- Dr. Masroor Khan, Cardiology
- Lake Country AHEC
- Mary Miner, Library Volunteer and recent KTBB Radio Volunteer of the Day
- Donna Walker, Nursing Education
